Damaged Engines

Our engines were damaged in a recent attack. Can you help put the relays back in the appropriate power chambers? We know the size and color of the relays that belong in each engine, we just don't know where. Besides some residual energy signatures in each engine, we also know that

- No relays of the same color can overlap in an engine
- No relays of the same size can be inserted in the same place in an engine

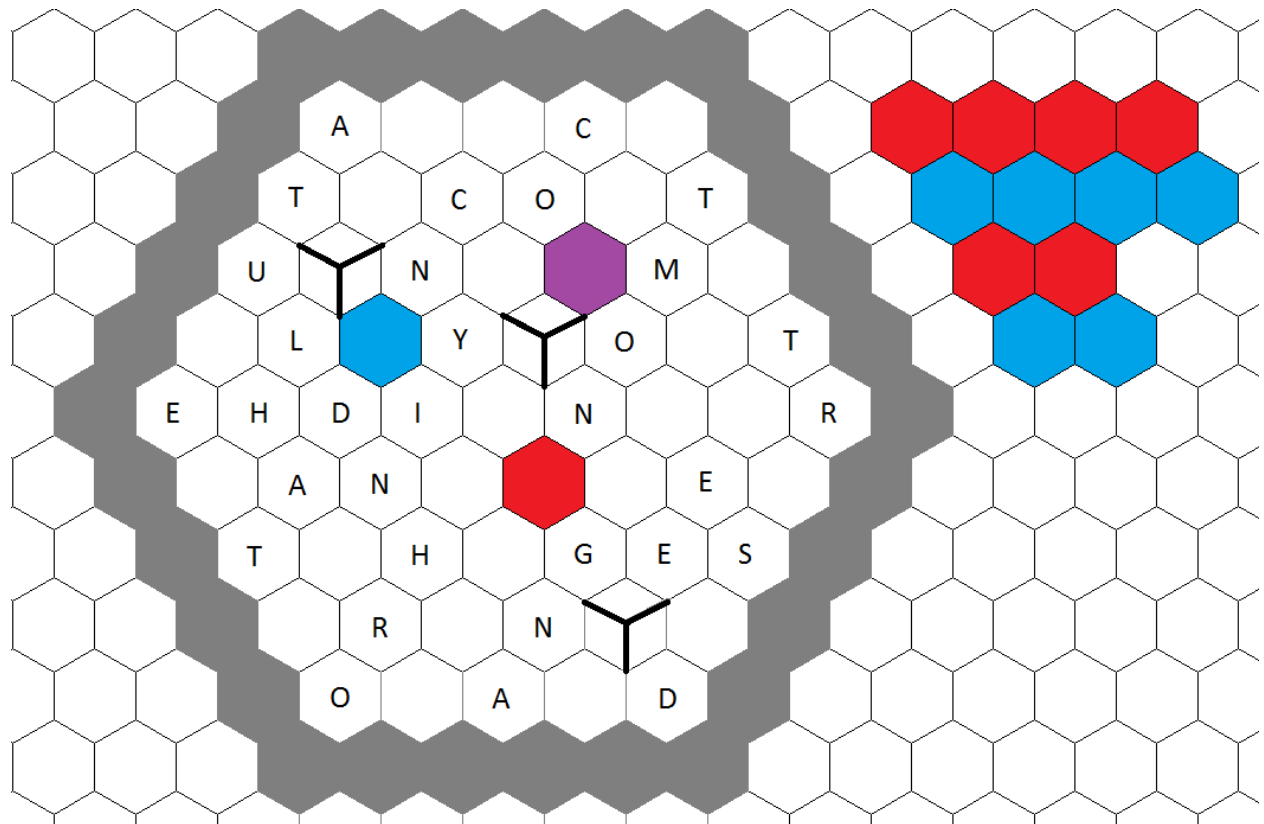

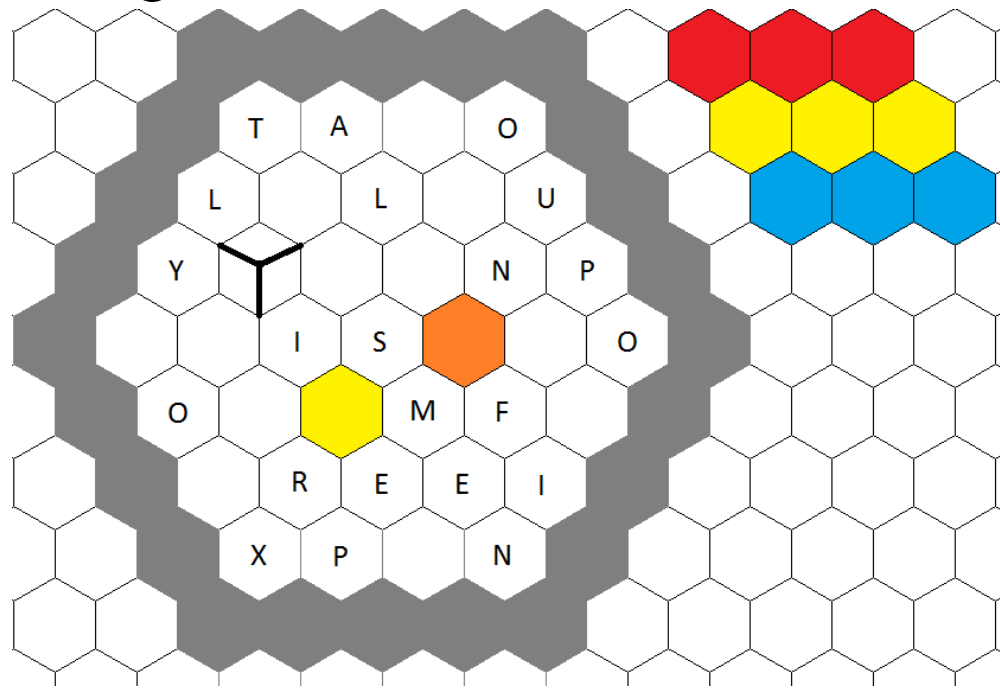

We've managed to assemble our short range impulse engine above. Can you reassemble the rest of the relays into the engines so we can be on our way?
