1. I had lunch at a wonderful Italian café, Emporio La Rosa. I was fresh out of pesos, so my colleague from the Universidad de las Américas had to pay.
2. I met up with all of my colleagues in Trafalgar Square.
3. I spent a beautiful weekend on the northern shores of Isla del Rey.
4. I hiked the Darwin Trail with Miss Baltra to see the colony of red-footed boobies.
5. I toured the Wilson's Creek Battlefield with Miss Branson.
6. After seeing the 1996 Oscar winning film, I had to see this city with the same name. Fortunately, my meeting with Mr. Hector made this a business trip.
7. I enjoyed the architecture; particularly, the Arch of Augustus. After a bit of site seeing I met up with my colleague Federico Fellini.
8. I met my colleague, Mr. Zhulyany, at Independence Square.
9. I attended services at the historic Annunciation Church with my colleague Mrs. Vostochny.
10. I stayed the night at the Arlington Antebellum Home.
11. After spending the evening in Little Havana, I met my colleague at the corner of Perimeter Road and NW 20th Street.
12. I was told that I had to visit the Cementerio de la Recoleta. My colleague, Jorge Newberry, and I spent hours looking at several ridiculously over-the-top tombs.
13. I came here to vacation at the Sandpiper Beacon Beach Resort right after spring break. The city's beach was wrecked from all the parties.
