

The Great Barrier Reef

The Great Barrier Reef lies off the northeast coast of Australia. The world's largest coral reef, it is of value to biologists around the world because of its rich biodiversity. These 2000 kilometers of islands and reefs on the edge of the Pacific Ocean are also a favorite amongst scuba divers and tourists due to their equally vibrant scenery. Inscribed as a World Heritage Site in 1981, the Great Barrier Reef now has large parts protected by the Great Barrier Reef Marine Park.
