

Dashboards

by Rorke Haining

Time travelers have some sweet rides, but they're often disguised to blend in with the vehicles of the indigenous peoples they visit. If you think you've found one of these beauts, look at the dash clock – it's a dead giveaway. (Normal clocks don't help time travelers.) Each LED digit on a time machine's dash clock processes an input word. For each LED bar, if the trigger letter unique to that bar appears anywhere in the input word, that bar will be lit, otherwise it will be dark. Eight input words have been processed for you as clues. Use this information to find a common 21st century time machine disguise.
