

What a Twist!

Brent Dorman

Difficulty

Medium

Hiring M Night Shyamalan to write a crossword for us seemed like a good idea at first, until we noticed every answer had an unexpected and completely unnecessary twist...

	1		2					3	4
		5							6
8										7
7	8				9		10
5	11		12		13
6							14
5	15					16	17
8		18							19
		20		21		22
								23	24

1S Get high like planes, until you're lost over enemy territory (3)	2W Twinned Mega Man 3 boss (6)	3S Their Image was tarnished following their 2008 bankruptcy (7)	4E Boil 'em, mash 'em, stick 'em in a stew (8)
5E Speak to the audience (5)	6N If you're on towards this outcome, you're surely not on the downside(6)	7W To frighten, perhaps with fire (7)	8E Robbin's video game publisher ballet (9)
9E Serve as an example to second-hand gifters (9)	10N You may find a partridge among this fruit (5)	11S A liberal anagram for Napoleon's night writing (7)	12N You make a sharp turnaround in the car (5)
13N The esteemed magician Christian Bale (8)	14N Candles dwindle at their end (7)	15S Break down ArSeNiC into its base component (7)	16S Common land area measure (7)
17W Newton, Gates, Mao – for example (8)	18N It's not my fault there's a Latin clue (8)	19E The abbreviated use of technology (4)	20S Frank Herbert's human computers (6)
21E A veritable fruit garden (7)	22E Take them if you've forgot how nice romance is (7)	23W A rather mousey stewed vegetable dish (11)	24N Entries in the list of courses (6)