GLaDOS: This experiment is similar to previous experiments involving energy balls although much more difficult. You will once again need to get the energy ball to go straight into the energy ball receptacle in order to open the exit door for your escape. There are 20 rooms divided by force fields. You and the energy ball may pass through the force fields freely but you may not shoot through the force field and passing through the force field will cause any previous portals you have placed to disappear. I do not expect you to escape to eat the cake I have waiting for you.

Black Wall — No portals allowed. Ball bounces off.
Grey Wall — Portals allowed although not required.
