

Sequels

Andy Crane

Difficulty

Easy

Apparently we need to find a way to make this a sequel after hearing this conversation between the director and a stage hand.

D: "You know kid, we need to make this a sequel. If a movie wasn't good enough to make another, it's not a movie as far as I'm concerned. I don't respect actors unless they appear in a movie series."

S: "Really, so like how Dick Van Dyke was in Night at the Museum?"

D: "No, he was only in one of the movies. They have to appear in at least two of the movies."

S: "Ah, so more like Bruce Campbell. He was in the Army of Darkness series and three Spiderman movies."

D: "Well, sort of. I recognize his appearance in Army of Darkness but he played a different character in each of the Spiderman movies. Has to be the same character in the different movies."

S: "Now I see. Someone like Mike Myers. He was in Austin Powers and Wayne's World. Great movies!"

D: "Yeah, and don't forget about Shrek. Voice-overs are valid acting roles too, so they count."

S: "Oh yeah, that's true. So which are your favorites?"

D: "There are several that I enjoyed, so I'll give you the movie descriptions and the actors that appeared in each. But my overall favorite is the person who appeared in _____."

